DELANO KINDRED

The DELANO KINDRED is a Society, incorporated in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, organized exclusively for educational and charitable purposes to perpetuate the memory and genealogy of the ancestors and descendants of the progenitor of most DELANOs in the Americas, PHILIPPE DE LA NOYE, who arrived at Plymouth in 1621 on the ship FORTUNE.

THE 1995 MEMBERSHIP YEAR STARTS IN JANUARY.
HAVE YOU PAID YOUR 1995 DUES?

As we have explained in our past News Letters, our 1995 Membership Year starts on 1 January 1995 and runs through December of the "calendar" year. Bus Tour:

We are pleased to offer an afternoon bus tour which includes the restored Homestead of William S. DeLano who was one of several DELANO and allied descendant families that settled in the Cooper Township area. The Kalamazoo Nature Center is a nonprofit organization whose mission is to further the development of an environmental ethic in all persons within its reach by means of education, research, and the stewardship of Cooper's Glen and other natural areas. Within the Nature Center's 1,000 acres in the Cooper, Michigan area, much of which is called Cooper's Glen, is the original acreage of several DELANO's and also of the SKINNER's, one of the families long allied with the DELANO's. Members of the DELANO and SKINNER families had settled near each other in communities in Saratoga and Orleans Counties of New York in the early and mid-1800's.

After a short presentation at the Nature Center Auditorium, we will visit the DELANO Homestead, a Michigan Registered Historical Site that includes the restored home of William Smith and Louisa (Skinner) DeLano. The tour will then visit the Evergreen Cemetery where many of the DELANO's and Allied Families of Cooper are buried. The tour will then visit the Cooper Congregational Church which is also a Michigan Registered Historical Site which was built in 1856. The founding congregation in 1845 included DELANO's and Allied Families. En route and on returning to the hotel, we may have a chance to see other sites of DELANO, historical significance and pass some of the early homes. We are pleased that Ward Christlieb, a noted Cooper historian, has consented to be our tour guide on the Cooper portion of the tour. We expect the tour will take 4 hours and will return to the hotel about 5:00 p.m.

Annual Dinner:

The Annual Dinner will be a Plaza Buffet at 6:00 p.m. as follows:

Tossed Green Salad with a choice of two dressings.

The Buffet will consist of several appetizers with a choice of two entrees of Roast Top Sirloin of Beef or Orange Roughy with Shrimp Sauce, accompanied with potato, vegetables or rice, assorted breads and rolls.

Dessert will be served separately.

Beverages will include Regular and Decaffeinated Coffee, Tea or Milk.

The after-dinner speaker will be announced in our June Bonnes Nouvelles with more details as they develop.

DELANO'S IN MICHIGANPART II

In our December Bonnes Nouvelles, we covered locations in Michigan where DELANOs are mentioned in the 2nd Book of GHAARD (The DELANO Genealogy) for all branches including unknown branch settlers except the Lt. Jonathan branch. In this issue, we discuss the Lt. Jonathan branch because the large number of entries discovered in the GHAARD.

Descendants from Lt. Jonathan's oldest son, Jonathan Jr. settled in more areas in Michigan than any other branch or subbranch. While most of these descendants came directly from New York via ship from Buffalo, some settled temporarily in Ohio and Indiana before coming to Michigan from New York. There are over 58 listings of the subbranch in the GHAARD. If one extends a line from just north of Detroit through Flint to Saginaw Bay (between the "thumb" and the rest of the hand), a second line west from Detroit to Jackson, thence northwest through Grand Rapids to Pentwater on the shore of Lake Michigan, and a third line from Detroit west southwestward through Sturgis, most of the locations where descendants of Jonathan Jr. settled would be found within 50 miles on either side of these lines except for the town of Manton, MI which is approximately 50 miles south of Traverse City and the town of Marenisco, MI located in the western upper peninsula near the Wisconsin border. The centers of greatest settlements include the area in the vicinity of Jackson, MI where many settlers were related to Gardner Sylvanus Delano and Oxford, MI, north of Detroit where many descendants of brothers Daniel Wheeler, Watson, and Benjamin Franklin Delano settled.

The second largest subbranch of the Lt. Jonathan line is that of Lt. Jonathan's son Nathaniel. Most of these descendants settled in the Cooper-Kalamazoo, MI area and are descended through Corporal Jonathan Delano from New York. There are at least 18 listings in Cooper and Kalamazoo in the GHAARD.

Other subbranches include those Lt. Jonathan's sons Jabez, Jethro and Thomas. One descendant of the Jethro subbranch, descendant Ezra Turner Delano settled in Au Gres, MI on the north side of Saginaw Bay near the village of Delano, MI.

1994 QUESTIONNAIRE RESULTS

We wish to thank our members who took the time to answer our 1994 Annual Questionnaire.

With regard to the question of Annual Meeting locations, over 90 percent of those responding favored the present policy of holding meetings in the Plymouth-Duxbury area on even years and in locations where DELANO history exists on odd years.

Of those responding to the question about the location for the 1997 meeting, 35 percent favored Virginia; 15 percent favored California; Colorado, Florida and Maine were each favored by 10 percent. Arizona, Minnesota and Missouri were also favored. One innovative responder suggested a cruise.

Twenty-one members indicated they would be willing to help with the Genealogy Program. Twelve were willing to assist with Annual Meetings. Nineteen indicated they would be willing to provide "State/Regional assistance" in reaching former members. Eleven members indicated they were interested in taking a European-educational tour. Four members indicated they were willing to be a member of the Memorial Committee, and three indicated a willingness to contribute articles to the Bonnes Nouvelles.

We appreciate efforts of those members who took the time to answer the questionnaire and who also provided comments and/or suggestions.

Director C. Edwin Delano of Dallas, TX, has consented to lead the State/Regional Assistance effort. He will be contacting those members who indicated an interest in helping with this project.

Vice President Robert B. Delano of Warsaw, VA will be developing a "steering group" of Virginia members to determine the best location for the 1997 Annual Meeting with respect to DELANO history, meeting facilities, accommodations and so forth. Those who wish to help on this group, please contact Robert. His phone number and address are listed on page 6 of October Bonnes Nouvelles (#12).

EUROPEAN PLACES WITH A DELANO-DE LANNON CONNECTION

Part V - The Fourteenth Century

In our December Bonnes Nouvelles #14, we followed the DELANO-de Lannoy branch of the Franchimont-de Lannoy "pedigrée" line through the Fifteenth Century back to 1400 and the birth of [8A] BAUDOIN(I)'s father [7A] GUILLEBERT(I). Part V of this series follows this line back from 1400 to 1300 citing the European places significant to the history of the line. As usual, we include a companion article concerning the main historical events of the 14th Century.

As you recall, Boudoin's father Guillebert (I) de Lannoy was the Seigneur de Santes, de Willerval, de Rollancourt and de Beaumont. Santes is located approximately 4 miles southwest of Lille, France. Willerval is located about 5 miles northeast of Arras just to the west of French Route 919. As we mentioned, Guillebert (I) was also a Knight of the Religious and Military Order of Saint Catherine of Mount Sinai.

Guillebert's father [6A] HUGHES de Lannoy "was born about 1311 and died in June 1349."¹ He "succeeded as Seigneur de Lannoy and de Lys."² Lys-les-Lannoy and Lannoy are located 4 to 5 miles east of Lille near the French-Belgium border. In 1329 Hughes married Marguerite de Maingoval or Mingoval, daughter of Guilles of Mingoval "a Peer of the Chateau Bèthune."³ Bèthune (now a city) is located about 17 miles west southwest of Lille. "Marguerite died aged 70 years and was buried beside her husband in the entry to the choir of the church at Lys. Upon her tomb is the Maingoval coat-armor."⁴

Hughes and Marguerite had four sons including Guillebert (I). They were:

(1) Robert de Lannoy who died without issue.

(2) Hughes II de Lannoy who was the founder progenitor of the "Maingoval Line" which had branches which connected to families of Naples, Rome and Milan in the early 1500's. One of the most illustrious seigneurs of this branch was Charles de Lannoy who became the Viceroy of Naples in 1522 and was captain general of the armies of Emperor Charles V. of Spain. At the battle of Pavia, in 1525 he took Francois I, the King of France, as his prisoner.⁵ Another branch of the Maingoval line through a natural son Antoine (bastard of Maingoval) founded a line that became known as Lannoy de Frise (Friesland in the Netherlands).

(3) Guillebert (I)'s branch, which includes our American DELANO-de Lannoy line, was mainly a "Burgundian" branch with connections with the Netherlands, Belgium and, possibly with the Manuel family of Castile and Leon.

(4) The fourth son was Jean "Percheval" (meaning valley-headed) de Lannoy. Jean Percheval's branch was the Motterie Line which was a largely French line with significant connections in Belgium; Luxembourg and Westphalia (the Lannoy Clervaux line); Holland (including many de Lannoys who came to New Amsterdam (New York), and possibly the "House of Lannoy in England." Through this French line is the connection to the seigneurs de Lesdain. Marie de Lannoy, daughter of one of the seigneurs de Lesdain, married Odet de la Noue (b? d 1622) who was the seigneur de la Noue and de Teligny. Odet was the eldest son of Francois III de la Noue (1531-1591).⁶ Francois III de la Noue "was the greatest Protestant (Huguenot) General of his time." He lost his arm at the battle of Fontenoi in 1570 and was killed in the siege of Lamballe in 1591. He was known as "Bras-de-fer" (iron armed). His coat of arms contain the three wolves heads erased.⁷ (See Bonnes Nouvelles #11, pg. 8).

HUGHES de Lannoy's father was [5A] JEAN de FRANCHIMONT. It was Jean de Franchimont who in the early 1300's came through Flanders with about 3000 retainers and followers whom he brought to the assistance of the Count of Flanders Gui de Dampiere (Guy de Dampierre). He married Mahienne de Lannoy, the daughter and sole heiress of the last seigneur of Lannoy. Jean de Franchimont "assumed the seigneurie de Lannoy and their issue bore the surname of Lannoy everafter."⁸ The Franchimont coat of arms became the de Lannoy coat of arms at that time.

SOME HISTORICAL EVENTS OF THE 14TH CENTURY

13th Century Background

"One might trace the emergence of what has been called a 'religion of monarchy' to" King Louis IX of France's (1226-1270) "reign, a theme that was taken up by Philip IV (the Fair)" [Louis IX's grandson]. "It was to the Kings of France, rather than German emperors, that men increasingly looked for moral leadership, sanctification of secular power, and impartial arbitration of their conflicts. These themes were expressed at their fullest state of development under Philip the Fair. Louis IX was canonized (St. Louis) as a result of French pressure upon Pope Boniface VIII in 1297 and he cast a heavy shadow over Philip's reign."¹ Between 1294 and 1303 a series of quarrels broke out between Philip the Fair and Boniface VIII fundamentally over the right of a secular ruler to tax the clergy within his kingdom. This issue was not confined to France. Edward I of England encountered similar problems in the 1290's.² In 1297 the Count of Flanders had allied himself with the English and thrown off his allegiance to the French King and had become closely associated with the democratic party of common people which formed the "Klauwaerts" (the party of the claw—the rampant lion on the Flemish coat of arms). Philip the Fair forced the count into submission and occupied the country and placed control of Flanders in the hands of a French governor Jaques de Châtillon.³

1300-1310

In 1302, as a result of the previously mentioned quarrels, Pope Boniface VIII issued the papal bull "Unam sanctum" which defined papal power at its most extreme. On 17 May 1302, in Burge, Flanders, some of the aforementioned Klauwaerts attacked and killed a large number of French soldiers during the "Matins of Bruge." Within a few days Flanders was in the hands of the Klauwaerts. In July of 1302, "armies of Châtillon supported by other knights from France, and hired Genoese crossbowmen and German horsemen met an army of weavers and other workingmen" led by Count Guy de Dampierre and some other knights of military experience (including Jean de Franchimont). The French were defeated with, as it was claimed, 20,000 left dead on the field. Seven hundred gold spurs of defeated knights were taken and consequently this has been known as the "Battle of the Spurs" ever since.⁴ Jean de Franchimont [5A] came to Flanders with 3,000 men to aid Guy de Dampierre, the Count of Flanders in this battle — see the accompanying article on European Places with a DELANO-de Lannoy connection.⁵ In 1303 French and Italian troops made a violent assault on the papal palace at Anagni, Italy. Pope Boniface was captured and tried for heresy. He died a few weeks later. Franco-papal harmony was to a large degree restored with the election of Pope Celestine V in 1305 and in 1309 the Pope moved from Rome to Avignon (France).⁶

1310-1320

About 1310 Jean de Franchimont married Mahienne de Lannoy and about 1311 Hughes de Lannoy [6A] was born.⁷ While there has been considerable speculation as to why the descendants of Jean and Mahienne (de Lannoy) de Franchimont continue to bear the de

Lannoy surname, your author suggests the following: First Jean de Franchimont became the Seigneur de Lannoy. Secondly, during the early 1300's there were extremely strong nationalistic feelings associated with the democratic cause of the Klauwaerts since de Lannoy was a recognized Flemish name associated with Flemish lands and Franchimont was not, it may have been politically expedient for de Lannoy to continue as the surname to assure claim to de Lannoy estates. Thirdly, the control of the Franchimont lands and entitlements were in the hands of his older brother Balderic de Franchimont. Therefore keeping the surname de Lannoy would aid in keeping the estates separate. In 1314 Louis X succeeded Philip the Fair as King of France. During the period 1315 through 1317 Europe experienced widespread harvest failures. In 1316 Philip V succeeded Louis X as King of France.

1320-1330

In 1321 the Florentine poet Dante Alighieri died in Ravenna (Italy). In 1322 Charles IV the last of the Capetian Kings succeeded Louis X as King of France. In 1323 disorders broke out in Flanders under the leadership of Nicolas Zannequin. The revolt became more fierce in 1324 and by 1325 and was generally directed against large landowners, both lay and clerical. The rebels gained control of Bruges and Ypres then turned against their count Louis de Nevers, who was now a courtier of Charles IV (King of France) and seized him at Conrai. They murdered some of the count's counsellors before his eyes and imprisoned him in the cloth-hall at Bruges. The Count of Flanders asked the King for assistance and an army of overwhelming strength supported by the pope, the nobility, and the town aristocracies defeated the rebels at Cassel in August 1328.⁸ In 1328 Charles IV the last Capetian King of France died. Philip VI succeeded to the Kingship as the first Valois King of France. It should be noted that Edward III the King of England was closely related to the Capetian Kings through his mother, Queen Isabella, who was the sister of Louis X, Philip V and Charles IV. In 1329 Hughes de Lannoy [6A] married Marguerite de Maingoval.

1330-1340

In 1337 King Edward III of England, after futile negotiations with Philip VI to relinquish the French crown to him because of his capetian descendancy, began negotiations for alliances against France with various dukes and counts in the lowlands and the lower Rhine Valley including his father-in-law Count William of Hainault. This action, along with the increasing frequency of naval raids on both English and French coastal towns, marked the beginning of the Hundred Years War in which the de Lannoy's would eventually become involved. Also in 1337 Jaques van Artevelde led a popular uprising of Flemings in an effort to gain independence from France. In doing so van Artevelde allied himself and the northern parts of Flanders with England against France. Louis of Nevers the Count of Flanders was deposed. He escaped to the French Court of King Philip VI. The de Lannoy's remained loyal to the Count of Flanders and, therefore, to the King of France. On 23 May 1338, Hughes de Lannoy made a quittance (a payment of debt) to King of France's War Treasury.⁹ In 1339 France was invaded by Edward III from the Netherlands.

1340-1350

At Ghent on January 1340 Edward III formally assumed the title of the King of France, thus challenging the Valois assumption of the French crown of Philip VI by declaring him an usurper. On this occasion Edward signed a treaty with Flemings. The Flemings, under the leadership of Van Artevelde, saw Edward's assumption of the French crown as a vindication for their own claim to be free from the authority of their pro-French count Louis of Nevers.¹⁰ Accordingly, they accepted the claims to the French crown by Edward III for guarantees that English wool would be placed at Bruges for 15 years and to protect trade between England and the Netherlands would be protected. After the naval battle at Sluys in June of 1340, the English ravaged northern and central France. In 1345 an English army was landed at Bordeaux for the invasion of Gascony. In 1346 Edward III landed in Normandy and eventually was victorious over the French at the historic Battle of Crècy in which the English longbowmen decimated the French. In the winter of 1347 Calais was under siege by English and was captured in the following spring. From 1347 through 1350 the first wave of the Black Death ravaged Europe killing over one third of the population. Guillebert de Lannoy (I) [7A] was born before 1349. In June 1349 Hughes de Lannoy aged 38 years died, perhaps due to the Black Death. His eldest son Robert succeeded as Seigneur de Maingoval and de Lys.

1350-1360

In 1350 Philip VI died and John II (the Good) succeeded as King of France. From 1350 to 1356 southern France is plundered by the English. King John of France forced the English to fight at a battle near Portiers in 1356. The outcome was again a disaster for the French with the King John and many of his nobles taken prisoner. "Four more years of alternate truce and ravaging and a futile treaty negotiated by the imprisoned king but rejected at home, were necessary before exhaustion obliged the English to offer a treaty intended to conclude the war."¹¹

1360-1370

In 1360 the Treaty of Brètigny-Calais (between England and France) was signed and confirmed. In the treaty Edward III renounced his claim to the French crown in return for a greatly expanded duchy of Aquitaine. The terms of this treaty were never fulfilled. In 1361 the second wave of the Black Death began; severely striking the cities of the Netherlands and Flanders. In 1363 King John II (The Good) of France endowed his youngest son Philip (later called "The Bold") with the duchy of Burgundy, thus establishing the Valois dynasty of Dukes of Burgundy, in whose courts the de Lannoy's served. This action created a "quasi-independent Burgundy which eventually allied with England against France in 1421. In 1364 King John died and was succeeded by Charles V. In 1369 the Hundred Years War was reopened. In the same year Philip the Bold married Margaret of Flanders, daughter of Count Louis de Male.

1370-1380

In 1372 the English fleet was defeated off La Rochelle by a Franco-Castilian fleet. In 1377 Pope Gregory XI returned to Rome from Avignon and Philip van Artevelde led revolts in Flanders against Count Louis de Male and the French crown.

1380-1390

In the early 1380's Guillebert de Lannoy (I) [7A] Seigneur de Santes, de Willerval, de Rollancourt and de Beaumont married Catherine de Molembais. In 1384 they had their first son Hugues (Later to be known as "The Great").¹² In the same year Louis de Male died and Philip the Bold, Duke of Burgundy, succeeded to the counties of Flanders and Artois. About 1387 Guillebert de Lannoy (II) was born.

1390-1400

In 1392 King Charles VI of France had his first bouts of madness. About this same time Baudoin de Lannoy [8A] was born. Between 1392 and 1394 a rivalry for power within France occurred between the Duke of Orleans and the Duke of Burgundy. This rivalry continued into the 1400's and resulted in two assassinations (one victim was Louis Duke of Orleans in 1402 and the other was Duke John of Burgundy in 1419). In 1396 a truce between the French and English was made at Leulinghen which lasted until 1403. Also in 1396 the great western crusade meets with disaster at the hands of the Turks at Nicopolis. In 1400 Guillebert de Lannoy (I) [7A] died.

CANADIAN DELANO'S

Part V

In the fourth part of this series about the Descendants of Charlie DELANO by Mr. John Paterson, we covered Charles and Hannah Vanderbeck DELANO's son Abraham (see Bonnes Nouvelles #13). In this issue we intend to cover their son James.

James (1840-1926). James was the third child of Charles and Hannah DELANO. It is James descendant's line about which Paterson has the most information. He was born on 27 March 1840 in Northumberland County, New Brunswick. At the time he was baptized in Chatham Parish his parents lived in Nelson about four miles west of Chatham. On 21 October 1869 James married Ellen Dolan from North Esk. Ellen was the daughter of Michael and Flora (Gillis) Dolan. Her father was born in Ireland and her mother was born in New Brunswick. James was a quiet man who was never seen cross and seemed always happy according to his first grandchild Emma (DELANO) Mullin. He worked at Sinclairs Mill (lumber?) just up river from Newcastle and smoked a clay pipe according to another grandchild - Audrey DELANO Shaddick.

James and Ellen DELANO lived in about six different residences during their married life. They had 11 children and, if we counted correctly, 42 grandchildren and 81 great-grandchildren. Most of their children who are listed below stayed in the Newcastle, N.B. area. Two moved to the St. Catherines, Ontario area and one other moved to Boston. Their children are as follows:

Charles William DELANO (1871-1958). He married 1st Sarah Jane Jones and 2nd Jennie Ester Hardwick in July 1905. They had 13 children most of whom lived in the Newcastle area of New Brunswick. Charles was a "mill labourer" for the Richie Lumber Company.

James Alexander DELANO (1872-c. 1944). He married Bess Murphy. They had five children. James was also a "mill labourer."

Howard Michael DELANO (c. 1873-1910). He married Ada Howard on 4 October 1899 in Newcastle. They had two children. The oldest, a daughter, died at the age of 19. The other Earl DELANO moved to the U.S. Howard died at the age of 37 and Ada remarried and was living in St. John, N.B.

John Thomas DELANO (1876-between 1891 and 99?). There is no record of John Thomas being married. His occupation was listed as a "mill labourer" in the 1891 census.

Elkhana DELANO (1877-after 1881). He died young.

Thomas Jonathan DELANO (1880-1941). He married Christina Avita O'Hearn. They had four children—three sons, two of which lived in the Newcastle area and a daughter who married and was living in St. John. Thomas was employed by the Canadian National Railroad as a cook for a railroad repair gang. He died in 1941 when the "shanty" car in which he was sleeping was pushed off a siding on to the main line by runaway railroad cars and collided with a northbound freight train on the main line.

Walter Clifford DELANO (1881-1972). He married Mary W. McIvor. They had seven children. In 1929 Walter moved to St. Catherines, Ontario, and became employed by the Conroy Manufacturing Company. His family later joined him in St. Catherine.

Elkhana Calvin DELANO (1884-1958). He married Hazel Dell Mullin on 19 September 1911. They had eight children. Elkhana went with his brother Walter to Ontario in 1929, but returned to the Newcastle area a year later. Six of his children moved to the St. Catherines, Ontario area. Elkhana was employed as a cook in various lumber camps and on river tug boats used to pull rafts of logs down the river to the lumber mills.

George Washington DELANO (c. 1886-1959). He did not marry. He resided in New Brunswick.

Eldon Albert DELANO (1888-1947). He married Ella Barbara Brooks. They had three children. The family moved to St. Catherines in 1927. He was employed by Hayes Steel Company.

Hannah/Dora (c. 1891-). Not much is known about Hannah/Dora. She is named Hannah in the GHAARD, but in the 1891 there was a Dora aged 3 months in the James and Helen (Dolan) DELANO family.

This concludes our series on the Canadian DELANO's who were descendants of Charles DELANO (1810-1886) and Hannah Vanderbeck (1814-1862). We extend our congratulations and appreciation to John Paterson who diligently compiled this genealogy in 1991. Since then he has made one update in 1993. John would appreciate any comments, additions or corrections. They should be addressed to: John Paterson, 26 Ormand Street N., Apt. 303, Thorold, Ontario, Canada L2V 1Y8.

KUDOS

From time to time our members receive honors or awards. We believe these may be of interest to our readers. Your editor appreciates being provided information about these happenings and will attempt to include them in earliest Bonnes Nouvelles issues if feasible.

We learned from the August 1994 Mayflower Quarterly that ROBERT F. HUBER of Lexington, Virginia was notified that he won the first prize in Grand Circle Travel's nationwide photo contest. The award is a three-week vacation for two in England, Scotland and Wales.

Robert's winning entry was a color slide taken on a trip to Turkey and shows amazed and delighted children at a mountain village school listening to a tape recording of their songs of welcome. Robert's photo will be featured in Grand Circle's Travel catalogs.

It was also pointed out that Robert had also been awarded the George Washington Medal of Honor by the Freedom Foundation at Valley Forge in October 1993. He was cited for "excellence in public communications" for his work as editor of the Howland Quarterly, a journal of the Pilgrim John Howland Society. Besides being a journalist and a genealogist, he is deputy governor general of the District of Columbia Mayflower Society and president of the Rockbridge Volunteers Chapter of the Sons of the American Revolution. Robert Huber is descended from the 10th child (Judith) of Issac and Elizabeth Delano of the John Branch (GHAARD, pgs. 286 & 287).

From the Kalamazoo Gazette, we learn that SUZZANE UPJOHN DELANO PARISH of Kalamazoo, who was a co-founder of the Kalamazoo Aviation History Museum, was inducted into the Michigan Aviation Hall of Fame. Suzzane, now 72 years old, has held commercial, instrument and instructor's ratings on her pilot's license before the age of 21. Suzzane is descended from the 8th child (Fred S) of William Smith and Hanna DeLano of the Lt. Jonathan Branch (GHAARD, pg. 450). Annually, she attends the Oshkosh Air Show and flies a P-40 named "Desert Pink."

The Michigan Aviation Hall of Fame, founded in 1987, had 35 members already which included Bill Lear, creator of the Lear Jet. Also inducted at the recent ceremony was Roger Chaffee an Apollo astronaut and native of Grand Rapids, MI who died in the launch pad fire 27 years ago.

ROYAL CHART OF LANNOY

In our October Bonnes Nouvelles #12, you may recall that A. Brookins Delano was working on a means to reproduce the Royal Chart of Lannoy. We are happy to report that there is now a capability to produce black and white copies of a blueprint provided by Robert B. Delano, Jr. of Richmond. Robert's is copied from Mr. Charles R. Gidley's copy. See NL #5, pg. 5 and NL #7, pg. 5. With the help of A. Brookins' son Jim, the chart has now been computerized in such a way that it may be possible to color code the different family lines to distinguish them easily. He is also in the process of developing a colored version which will have a different and more easily read layout as well as maps and coats of arms of the different families. A. Brookins says that Jim is hopeful he will have a more complete colored version available to be seen at the Annual Meeting in Kalamazoo this coming August.

HISTORIES OF CITIES AND TOWNS WITH DELANO'S AND ALLIED FAMILIES

There are many histories of cities and towns (townships) which mention DELANO's and many of the families allied through marriage. One book which we have read may bear your consideration, Reflections on a Town by H. Edmund Tripp, Sippican Historical Society, 1991. The book is a timeless photographic and anecdotal record over three centuries of Marion, Massachusetts. Besides numerous photographs the book, which has 150 pages with well written anecdotal histories, is divided into three sections:

The first being the early settlement in 1620 of the township of Rochester. (Marion and nearby Mattapoisett were part of Rochester until the 1850's.)

The second section from 1815 to 1870's discusses Marion's breaking away and becoming independent of Rochester, the mysterious story of the ship Mary Celeste captained by Benjamin Briggs of Marion, and Elizabeth Taber whose philanthropy did much for Marion.

The third section deals from 1870 to the 1940's and includes the stories of the visits of President Grover Cleveland, the Franklin Delano Roosevelt's treatment by Marion doctors, and the 1938 hurricane.

The book does not have a listing of names mentioned in the book. If you have the following surnames, besides DELANO, in your descendancy this book may be of interest.

Allen, Angier, Austin, Babcock, Barden, Barrymore, Bates, Baxter, Blankenship, Briggs, Brodhead, Brooks, Browne, Bruley, Burgess, Cambell, Clark, Clemens, Cleveland, Cobb, Coggeshall, Converse, Cudahy, Cutler, Davis, Dexter, Dreifer, Ellis, Fox, Furness, Gibson, Gilder, Gray, Gray, Griscom, Gurney, Hadley, Hall, Hamling, Hammond, Handy, Harding, Hart, Harwood, Hathaway, Hay, Hellep, Hiller, Holmes, Hurwood, Kelly, Knowlton, Lee, Lewis, Lewis, Lionbergers, Luce, McDonald, Nagels, Nelson, Nicolay, Nye, Parker, Pitcher, Pomroy, Porter, Rice, Richardson, Roosevelt, Russell, Ryder, Shepley, Sims, Slocum, Smith, St. Gaudens, Sweetsters, Swift, Taber or Tabor, Taylor, Thompson, Tripp, Waters, Willet, Wing, Wisner, and Young.

The book is a limited addition and may still be available at The Bookstall, 151 Front Street, Marion, MA 02738 (ph. 508-748-1041).

Please see a companion article and fan-charts of Justice Briggs and Polly Ellis and Harper DELANO and Susan Ellis.

Another book which we have not seen, but may be of some interest to those whose descendancy lines run through

Livermore, Maine, descendants of Zebedee DELANO of the Dr. Thomas branch (GHAARD, pg. 188) is Past Views of Livermore, Maine. It has 100 pages, about 250 photographs and some maps of the village. This book is produced by the Livermore, ME Bicentennial Committee and costs $10.00 plus $2.00 for shipping and handling. If you are interested, write to Livermore Photo Book AH. W.D. Stires, RR #2, Box 3249, Livermore Falls, ME 04254. In a companion article in this issue, we include the verified genealogical information on Zebedee DELANO.

Another set of books DELANO's and Allied Families which may be of interest is Old Scituate [Mass.], published by Chief Justice Cushing Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, 1921 (reprinted 1970-1978 by the Scituate Historical Society). There is mention of Benjamin DELANO and his son William DELANO (GHAARD, pg. 277). They and many of their sons were Scituate and Boston shipbuilders of note in the early 1800's. Another book about Scituate is The History of Scituate Massachusetts by Samuel Dean. Unfortunately, we do not have an address for obtaining these publications at this time for those interested in obtaining copies. We suggest you check the genealogical section of your local library or write the Scituate Historical Society in Scituate, Massachusetts.

Two books we have read about Duxbury, MA are The Duxbury Book 1637-1987 compiled and edited by Katherine H. Pillsbury, Robert D. Hale and Jack Post, 1987 Duxbury Rural and Historical Society and Stopping Places Along Duxbury Roads by Margery L. MacMillan, 1991, Duxbury Rural and Historical Society. The former book has very little about DELANO's, but does discuss the Dr. Thomas and Rebecca (Alden) (GHAARD, pg. 154) Delano house and mentions Philip Delano (Philippe De La Noye). Other DELANO's mentioned are Amasa Delano (GHAARD, pg. 210) and Samuel Delano (GHAARD, pg. 210). The second book provides photographs and short histories of taverns, hotels and inns, boarding houses, tearooms and restaurants. The histories of some of these buildings go back to the 1600's. Inquiries about these books may be directed to the Duxbury Rural and Historical Society, Duxbury MA 02331.

We would appreciate information about city and township histories you feel have been helpful to you in learning about a particular area where your descendants (DELANO's and Allied Families) settled. We will try to include your comments in future issues of the Bonnes Nouvelles.

OFFICIAL GENEALOGICAL REFERENCE
ADOPTED BY THE DELANO KINDRED BOARD

The Genealogy, History, and Alliances of the American House of Delano 1621 to 1899 (New York, 1989) compiled by Major Joel Andrew Delano and Arranged by Mortimer Delano de Lannoy (referred to by the acronym GHAARD) is the most comprehensive Delano family history known to officers and directors of the DELANO KINDRED. Although known to have "a large number of errors" and a somewhat "awkward manner of presentation," its 561 pages of information, which include a detailed general index, have proved to be a valuable source for determining lineage of a DELANO surnamed, descendant/ancestor born before 1895 to 1899.

The GHAARD contains a history and heraldry of the Maison de Franchimont and de Lannoy from 476 to 1621 as well as some details of the DELANO de LANNNOY coat-of-arms including the motto "Bonnes Nouvelles."

Because of its comprehensive documentation, the DELANO KINDRED Board has adopted the GHAARD as the major genealogical source for this Society, notwithstanding its errors and arrangement.

There were only 400 original copies of the GHAARD printed in 1899. However, Higginson Books, Derby Square, Salem, MA 01970, phone (508)745-7170, has good copies of the original with illustrations printed on acid free paper. The winter sale price of the GHAARD is $50.00 (US) plus postage—a savings of 30% under the catalogue price. If you mention the DELANO KINDRED News Letter, Higginson Books will make the sale price available to you. The normal contact at Higginson is Emily Wheeldon, who is at their office Tuesday-Friday.

"LIBRARIAN" NEEDED FOR FAMILY PUBLICATIONS OF DELANO'S
AND ALLIED FAMILIES

From time to time, we hear about or receive copies of genealogical works produced by members of the DELANO KINDRED. Book Two of the GHAARD was, and still is, the most complete DELANO Genealogy up to 1899, in spite of its errors. However, the GHAARD does not cover well the descendancies on the Allied Families connected by marriage. Therefore, the descendants of DELANO daughters are quickly lost in the GHAARD. In order to follow their lines, we must refer to other genealogies of these Allied Families. One of the goals in the DELANO KINDRED Genealogy project is to include the descendant lines of Allied Families as they relate to Philippe de Lannoy (De La Noye).

At present, the DELANO KINDRED has no facilities for a library which could store and/or make available these books to our members. Perhaps the next best thing would be a listing of genealogical works containing DELANO and Allied Family lines. Your editor would appreciate the name and address of anyone interested in acting as "Librarian" by maintaining a bibliographic listing of these publications which would include the name and address of the "publisher", a short description of the publication and the price per copy. If a member of the Society is interested in maintaining such a listing for the Society, the Board of Directors would be interested in a proposal.

MURIEL'S CORNER

Hi cousins,

I can't tell you how happy I am that so many of you have showed so much interest in the Kindred Genealogy project. I am enjoying all of your good wishes & encouragements. I am so interested in each of your lines of descendency & find it amazing that all these lives & families are because Philippe decided to come to the New World.

I appreciate all of the interesting articles & stories that some of you have sent and hope that you will write to the editor of the Newsletter so that other members of the Kindred may enjoy family stories of our ancestors. (I am not much of a journalist and would never do the story justice.)

I am here to help you in any way that I can, so please write with any questions you may have. If I can't help, I'll try to find another member of your line who may be able to answer your query.

From the Fortune Cookie. Years ago when beaver hats were popular, a chemical was used by the manufacturer which affected the nervous system of the workers and eventually it affected their behavior. Hence the term "Mad as a Hatter."

Looking forward to seeing you all at the reunion in KALAMAZOO.

THE WORLD BOOK OF DELANO'S (REVISITED)

As you may recall in our October 1994 Bonnes Nouvelles #12, we discussed the questionable genealogical organization HALBERT'S of Bath, OH, who publish the World Book of insert any surname here. In our case, it was the World Book of DELANO's. Well, your editor reports they are at it again! Your editor did not respond to the first letter signed by "Marilyn A. Delano i.a. (i.a. means "in absentia"), so he received a second letter urging him to purchase that publication.

In response to our request in Bonnes Nouvelles #12, we have received several communications. Phillip Delano, our Secretary, called this publishing organization and told them they did not know what they were writing about. Dr. Phyllis Delano of Kalamazoo, MI, reported she had received the letter as had many other members. A. Brookins Delano, who is a fairly new member, reports "before I knew of the Delano Kindred reunion I ordered a copy. . . the book came, but I laid it aside and didn't look at it until later. One day I was picking things up and opened the package. What a sloppy thing! If I didn't have or know about the Genealogy," (the GHAHD) "I might have been impressed. Anyway, I sat down and wrote a letter pointing out the mistakes and gave my opinion of the whole thing and sent the letter back with the book and statement. Lo and behold, within a week I got my deposit back, but no letter; so all it amounted to was a little postage." A. Brookins also said he had a copy of the "Delano Family Heritage," "Delanos Across America" and also "Who's Who of American Delanos (1992)." He said he was "not much impressed" with them either.

We thank all those members who responded to our request for comments about these questionable genealogical publications.

GENEALOGICAL QUERIES

We are always pleased to print genealogical queries in the BONNES NOUVELLES. If you wish to place a request for information concerning an ancestor in the BONNES NOUVELLES, please send your query to George DeLano, 521 Buffer Drive, Virginia Beach, VA 23462-4505. Please enclose a check for $1.00, payable to the DELANO KINDRED. We will include your query in the next available newsletter. We ask that you provide a copy of information you receive answering your query to our Genealogist, Muriel Cushing.

In our October 1994 BONNES NOUVELLES (#12), we made an error in spelling Lanman. We apologize for the error and include the query of Mrs. Louis C. Wheeler again.

Query of: Mrs. Lois C. Wheeler, 145 Woodland Drive, West Melbourne, FL 32904

I would like to submit the following query: Peter Lanman (Elizabeth Ellis, Elizabeth Churchill, Rebecca Delano, Philippe Delano).

Looking for any information or descendants of Thomas Lanman and Sophia McLaughlin. He is son of Peter Lanman (above) and Mary Holmes. Sophia McLaughlin was the daughter of Joseph and Deborah (Lucas) McLaughlin of Kingston and was Thomas's first wife. Thomas was born in 1798. Thomas married (2nd) Eliza Soule. Death record for Thomas was recorded in Kingston, Mass. and says he was buried in Kingston. Can find no record of 2nd marriage. Kingston has no record of burial. Can anyone give me any information on these, my great great grandparents?

Query of: Helen Pratt, 1 Lincoln Street, Duxbury, MA 02332

Helen Pratt needs our help with finding the maiden name of Ichabod Delano's (GHAARD, pg. 509) second wife who is not listed in the GHAARD.

Looking for the maiden name of Ichabod (Samuel, Samuel, Phillipe) Delano's 2nd wife called "the widow Delano" in Duxbury V/R. They were m. Duxbury March 1780.

KNIGHTS OF ST. CATHERINE

As pointed out in our article about the Knights of St. Catherine in our December issue of the Bonnes Nouvelles, Baudoin (I) de Lannoy's father Guillebert [7A] was a member of the Order and therefore we have a "hereditary right" to the Knighthood. However, you will recall that, according to the GHAARD, Jean de Lannoy (Philippe's great grandfather) disinherited Gysbert deLannoy (Philippe's grandfather) about 1560—see Bonnes Nouvelles #11, pgs. 3&4.

What affect this disinheritance would have on Philippe De Lannoy's (De La Noye) descendant's "hereditary right" to establish membership in the Order of the Knights of St. Catherine is not clear at this time. Although it may not be directly related to this particular question, we have heard two views concerning the results of the disinherited issue as it relates to the right of "arms":

1. The descendants of the disinherited ancestor are also disinherited and lose the "right" to bear the family's coat of arms.
2. Only the particular ancestor that is disinherited loses the "right" to bear the family's coat of arms.

It is emphasized that the Knights of St. Catherine is not a genealogical group, but maintains one of the greatest traditions of our western culture, the quality and dignity of Knighthood. Also being a "religious" as well as a "military" order, the Order has Bishops of several mainstream denominations, Roman Catholic, Orthodox, and Protestant. A book that might provide some insight into the historical development of the conceptual background of Knighthood (or the idea of chivalry, its origins and development) is the book entitled Chivalry by Maurice Keen, 1984, Yale University Press, New Haven and London.

We have received word from the Most Reverend Bishop Lowell A. Barker that the Military and Religious Order of St. Catherine of the Sinai is planning an investiture in Dallas, Texas for the second weekend in May—the 12th and 13th. The spring investiture is scheduled to allow Canada to have a Fall investiture. After the receipt of the invitation, the Most Reverend Bishop was made aware of the disinheritance of Gysbert de Lannoy. The decision as to Philippe's descendant's "hereditary right" to establish membership is a decision for the authorities of the Knights of St. Catherine.

Should these authorities deem it appropriate to extend an invitation to our membership, we will make an arrangement with the Knights of St. Catherine to send invitations directly to our membership through our address label system in such a way as to protect the confidentiality of our membership mailing list.

We plan to provide a "follow up" article concerning this question in our next Bonnes Nouvelles.

ANCESTOR FAN CHARTS

In this issue, we are pleased to include two ancestor fan charts which Dorthea Harris of 493 Point Road of Marion, MA recently sent to us. We are pleased to include them in this issue since they serve as an illustrative example of DELANO's and Allied Families of Marion (formerly Rochester), Massachusetts. Please see the portion of the article on Histories of Cities and Towns with DELANO's and Allied Families dealing with the book entitled "Reflections on a Town." I am sure Dorthea would appreciate any help you can give her with the blanks in her ancestor fan charts. She would be very pleased. We thank Dorthea for sending the charts to us in time for inclusion in this issue.

THE DELANO KINDRED BONNES NOUVELLES

The DELANO KINDRED "Bonnes Nouvelles" is the official news letter of the DELANO KINDRED, Inc., Duxbury, MA. It is published quarterly and is mailed in the U.S. from Virginia Beach, VA, and in Canada from Niagara Falls, Ont. The Bonnes Nouvelles staff includes George DELANO (editor), Phillip DELANO (format, design and layout), and Diana DELANO (distribution). Requests for back copies and comments may be requested by writing to the DELANO KINDRED, Inc., P.O. Box 2635, Duxbury, MA 02331; Attn. Editor. The cost is $2.00 per copy.

It is planned to publish the next Bonnes Nouvelles #15 (June 1995); and the following four as follows: #16 (Sept. 1995); #17 (Dec. 1995) and #18 (March 1996); #19 (June 1996);

It has been our practice to mail one BONNES NOUVELLES to each member-household address. We would be happy to mail one copy of each issue of the BONNES NOUVELLES to each member at a household address if desired. It may be desirable, especially in the case of Family Memberships, that more than one copy be sent to an address. If you desire another member in your household to receive a copy, please send the name and membership number of the member to which the additional issue is to be sent to George B. DeLano, Editor, 521 Buffer Drive, Virginia Beach, VA 23462.
